

A selection of unique specialist outlets offering quality and variety

The Tenth Bull is an unusual shop set up as an emporium, it has a wide range of items for the home ranging from quality used furniture, lighting, mirrors, children's toys and games, unique gifts, candles, incense and so much more. So it is a place to visit, see what is here and find that unusual and unique item.

supplies, offer a picture framing service and show a selection of local artist's work and gifts together with very fine prints.

The gift shop at the Beacon museum has an excellent range of gifts and memorabilia closely linked to Whitehaven and the local area.

An exceptionally well presented range of very good jewellery and fine gifts are available from What's New.

Richardson's specialise in fine wines from small select vineyards and are able to give detailed advice on each and every product. They typify everything you could imagine about a traditional local trader.

Providing another stroll down memory lane, Dixons is a very traditional Department Store offering everything you need for house, home and to wear. Their clothing range is of exceptional quality.

At Humbugs you can take a step back in time, enjoy sweets and treats from yesteryear.

In addition to the wine, they also stock a small range of rare Malts and Coffee. The shop windows themselves are worth a visit, looking like a quirky combination of museum and traditional shop.

And finally, if you've forgotten to order your Christmas turkey (or even the sausages) visit Wils Hambling. This is where we buy our own local meat (and free range eggs) that have attracted so many compliments from our guests.

Sweet tobacco, old fashioned bonbons, rhubarb and custard, sherbet lemons, humbugs & hundreds more to chose from.

Lovely Georgian atmosphere and architecture

Whitehaven has been named 'Best Town Centre' in the UK in the British Council Shopping Centres Prestigious Town Centre's Environment Award. The judges were impressed by the town's renaissance and transformation from what they described as 'a run down port, into a very attractive centre for shoppers and tourists'.

There is a wide selection of varied, specialist and interesting shops for everyone to explore, many of which are unique to Whitehaven. The town centre has avoided the fashionable rush to clone town status that has left so many towns looking identical to each other.
